New in the neighborhood

The last week in July brought a new family to Founders Road in Indianapolis . . . the Thetas, formerly of Evanston, IL. Like everyone else on the block, we're owners, not renters and we plan to stay. We think we'll fit right in with the 8 other Greek letter fraternities with headquarters in College Park, a development in Indianapolis, specially planned for fraternities and sororities, in the hospitable atmosphere of Indianapolis and the State of Indiana.

One hundred and thirteen years ago we started out just 40 miles up the road in Greencastle, and coming back home to Indiana is an historical event which was climaxed with a gala dedication weekend September 17-18.

Cover Story

That blaze of autumn in the country which adorns the front cover is actually a choice spot on the campus of Virginia Technological Institute. The little niche of Virginia countryside is known as Duck Pond. We are bringing you this particular campus scene as a way of announcing a new Theta colony at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, VA. Seventy-six pledges of Epsilon Nu colony will be initiated when the chapter is installed in November.

There are more chapters in the planning stages. A colony at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island, soon to be a chapter, will keep the name of the Theta chapter once at Brown, which left us back in 1912, Alpha Epsilon. Villanova University became the home of the newest Theta colony at a special rush and pledging the weekend of September 13. The prospective chapter at Villanova, PA will be added to the roster as Epsilon Xi.

One of the rewards of being an editor is that occasionally you discover new talent and form new friendships among Thetas you don't even know. Joan Abernathy, who wrote the story about the Theta archives on the opposite page came to my attention quite by accident and some prodding. She sent me a story I couldn't use, but immediately recognized as having been written by someone with talent. Having searched for someone in the Evanston area to interview Mary Edith Arnold and write the story of the updating of the Theta archives, it didn't take long to see that possibility in this new Theta contact. Everything came together nicely and now two Northwestern Thetas (Joan Abernathy interviewer/writer and Cece Cox photographer) have joined forces to provide an interesting article on Theta archives with a new look.

Adding luster to the name

While Grand President Lissa Bradford was in Stillwater, OK for a week, tending to her responsibilities at Officers' Conference and Leadership Conference, her daughter Melissa was taking care of the family's reputation in athletics. On returning home, Lissa was greeted by the new Tennessee Women's Amateur Golf Champion, Melissa Bradford, a member of Delta Omicron chapter and a junior at the University of Alabama. President Lissa has a few trophies of her own to attest to her athletic skills. What's her game? Golf of course, but she can beat you at tennis too. Continued on page 15

Activating the Archives: A Labor of Love

Appointed by Grand Council to fill a vacancy, Mary Edith Arnold, Alpha Mu, Missouri, assumed the office of National Archivist for Kappa Alpha Theta in January 1981. At the time she admittedly "knew just a little." Today she knows just a lot about archival collections, Theta's in particular.

Mary Edith says serving as National Archivist has enriched her life. She has dedicated the past two and a half years to learning "as much as possible" about processing and preservation procedures while familiarizing herself, and others with Theta's "exceptional" archival collection. This includes some 200 linear feet of fraternity documents, records and publications going back to 1870, song books, correspondence, photographs and memorabilia plus badges, jewelry, scrapbooks and silver serving pieces.

There are also two tintypes from 1870 and sound tapes and recordings from more recent times.

Mary Edith's interest was first awakened when she undertook to restore and conserve historic papers and old photos for her own family genealogy. Now as Archivist that avocation has become a true vocation . . . and her enthusiasm in activating the archives is contagious.

Initially, she set about to sort through and identify the various bound and loose materials, housed in one room, approximately 12' x 12', at Central Office in Evanston. (The Archives were kept at Alpha, DePauw until 1966.)

To implement her program of reorganization and conservation, Mary Edith drew up a budget and was glad to receive $4,800 from the Loyally in Theta Fund . . . but she didn't spend it all that first year. One example of her prudence is how she scouted Northwest Suburban flea markets in order to have a humidity chamber, an essential for restoring moisture to dried, brittle papers and photos. She finally found the perfect airtight container for the purpose . . . a 2½ foot-high green antique flour bin for $6.50!

Mary Edith approaches the use of the innovated humidifier with caution as she and her volunteer assistants enlisted from the Chicago-Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter, experiment with "relaxing" rolled documents and photographs so that they may be flattened and protectively stored.

Photographs Are Rich Resources

Theta's Archivist considers the photos, many from the late 1800s and early 1900s, to be among the collection's richest resources. They have been inventoried and identified before placement in mylar sleeves. These are then put into archival envelopes in a self-filing system.

Theta Archivist, Mary Edith Arnold, Alpha Mu, shown working with photographs to be preserved for the archives.

With funding, Mary Edith also gradually replaced ordinary file folders and manila envelopes with inert, non-acidic folders and boxes for safer storage. In going through the materials she removed vast quantities of scotch tape, metal paper clips and staples, which over the years are damaging to paper.

Because "whatever I'm doing, I want to do professionally," she has attended a number of seminars and conferences starting with the 1981 Spring Midwest Archives Conference in Chicago. She has also visited the Delta Gamma and Kappa Kappa Gamma collections in Columbus, Ohio.

In addition, she enrolled for spring term this year in Northwestern University Archivist Patrick Quinn's class in archival management. Every Thursday evening she and her husband Bob had an early supper date in Evanston, she driving in from Arlington Heights and he arriving by train from his management position with Velsicol Chemical Co. in Chicago. Then while she went to class from 7-9:30, he read in the library and waited to drive her home.

Mary Edith also sought expert opinion and recommendations on care and management specifically directed to the Kappa Alpha Theta archives. She used $300 of her allocation to have a records management survey conducted by Mary Ann Bamberger, a University of Illinois at Chicago archivist. (Records management controls the accumulation of records generated by personnel of an organization for either their regular transfer to the archives or for their disposal.)

In her report Ms. Bamberger noted:

. . . The in-house archives, if properly funded and administered, can ensure the preservation of records and ready accessibility of them . . . Kappa Alpha Theta is safeguarding its interest in documenting its role in history, particularly since it was "the first Greek-letter fraternity known among women." . . .

An Assist from National Endowment For the Humanities

A real coup was obtaining a Basic Archival Conservation Program grant to have a consultant review the Kappa Alpha Theta archives and make an evaluation. Mary Lynn Ritzenthaler, Society of American Archivists, performed the service which was funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Ms. Ritzenthaler in a comprehensive report dated Feb. 7, 1983, wrote:

I was very impressed with the Kappa Alpha Theta Archives. The collection has been assembled and managed in a very professional manner. The Archivist has proceeded quite properly in focusing on arrangement and description of these records, and these functions are fundamental to building a sound conservation program. . . .

The consultant also confirmed what Mary Edith has believed since undertaking her responsibilities:

The Kappa Alpha Theta archives constitute a rich resource for the study of the development of the fraternity, as well as the history of women, education, and women's organizations, among other topics. Kappa Alpha Theta is to be commended for recognizing the importance of its historical files, both for administrative purposes and scholarly research. . . .

From the start, Mary Edith says she realized the Theta archives were "too valuable an educational resource to keep to ourselves.

"There will always be some restricted materials," she quickly adds, "but the bulk should be open."

Archives Contents To Be Shared

Sharing the contents with Thetas and responsible researchers is a goal to become closer to reality with the impending opening of the new permanent headquarters on Founders Road in College Park, Indianapolis.

Probably the most exciting news regarding the archives in the handsome facility is that there will be two spacious rooms planned and furnished expressly for that purpose. The first is on the main floor, measures 13' x 18' and will provide work, reading and storage space. The second, on the lower level measures 23' x 10' and will be the principal repository. With knowledgeable input from Mary Lynn Ritzenthaler concerning stable optimum temperatures, relative humidity and security, Mary Edith has worked closely with the building committee in designing the archival rooms to fit today's needs and to allow for long-range needs. She has also suggested appropriate display and exhibit cases for different areas of the headquarters.

In anticipation of the move to Indianapolis in late July, Theta's Archivist worked even more hours than usual to see that the collection would be transported safely in an organized manner. A workshop in April of Theta volunteers was especially helpful in treating the leather bindings of the KAPPA ALPHA THETA MAGAZINE collection (dating back to 1885). The volumes required applications of potassium lactate and neat's-foot oil to dress and preserve the leather before being packed.

Attesting to the quality of her performance, Mary Edith was asked by Grand Council to continue with her work after the archives are established in the new Indianapolis office. She accepted although it will involve frequent travel between her home and Indianapolis. She is planning to spend several days there every month.

"I'm really excited and am looking forward to working with volunteers in the Indianapolis area," she says. "They will be invited to assist with conservation, displays or finding aids, whatever happens to be in their interest."

The next major effort after relocation and processing completion will be to further develop the access system by cataloging the resources. "Very few women's fraternities have tried to make their collections accessible," she notes. "We will be in the forefront."

Reporting to Grand Council in January, Mary Edith wrote:

I continue to be amazed at how our records reflect the contributions Thetas have made, individually and collectively, in response to the times within which they lived. It's a privilege to work with such a collection.

And Thetas everywhere can be grateful for her labors and that she feels as she does about the treasures in our keeping.

Theta on the move

Officers' Conference 1983

Stillwater meeting for district and special officers preceded Leadership Conference

As if to prepare for the big event of moving the national headquarters from Evanston to Indianapolis this summer, the theme of the 1983 Officers' Conference, "Theta on the Move" has become a slogan.

The 23 college district presidents and 21 alumnae district presidents and assorted special officers who attended Officers' Conference in Stillwater, OK at the Beta Zeta chapter house, started things moving during the three days of training and review that preceded the arrival of college delegates for Leadership Conference.

The number of district officers has been increased by two in the college ranks the past year to accommodate new chapters in the northeast and one in Virginia. Yes, we're on the move.

Speaking at the opening session of the Officers' Conference, Grand President Lissa Bradford told the Theta volunteers who comprise the middle level management structure of Kappa Alpha Theta that the two main assets which enable them to become efficient and effective officers are dedication and responsibility.

She reminded the college district presidents that during the years when teenagers are turning into adults, Kappa Alpha Theta provides an environment in which they are encouraged to rise above mediocrity, develop their scholastic potential to the fullest, test their leadership skills, accept responsibility for their actions, and learn that real happiness comes from sharing themselves with others.

"Through the guidance we give as officers and the role models we provide for impressionable young women, our jobs are awesomely worthwhile. We are touching in a very positive way the lives of tomorrow's mothers, teachers, business, professional, political and civic leaders. This is hardly frivolous work," the Grand President said.

To the alumnae district presidents she spoke of the needs of our members beyond the college years and the role Kappa Alpha Theta serves in helping to meet these needs. "They need friends, diversions, leadership opportunities, others to care about and others to care about them. They need civic and charitable involvements, they need social outlets, and they need companionship. Kappa Alpha Theta fills these needs with our organized alumnae program. By bringing our alumnae together through chapters and clubs we provide a continuing impetus for personal growth and service to others, and a circle of friends for support and companionship.

Yes, 1983 is an exciting time to be on the Theta officer team, for Theta is on the move. Not only are the business headquarters of the fraternity moving, but every program in the fraternity is gearing for a forward thrust. Extension, careers, scholarship, whatever . . . we're moving ahead.

Training Session

Life in the fast lane

Yes it does describe the state of the fraternity, and yet Theta on the move has meaning beyond the relocation of the business in its move to a new headquarters building in Indianapolis. That phrase also describes a healthy and prosperous organization. It speaks of goals and objects and a plan for achieving them. To move forward while maintaining fraternity standards, to grow at a pace compatible with the resources of the fraternity, and to make the undergraduate Theta experience a productive one and a powerful influence for good, these are some of the objectives underlying the specific learning experience of Leadership Conference.

Theta on the move keeps Leadership Conference delegates on three tracks

Getting down to the "how to" of the leadership training aspect of the conference, this June 1983 meeting was based on three "tracks" or subjects of emphasis . . . all going on simultaneously. Most chapters had a representative at each track.

To the President's Track went the official college chapter delegates, where they discussed campus and community awareness, problem solving, chapter programming, ritual, and leadership techniques. They moved in on the finance track for a time, and in a general session they heard a lecture on chapter liability by David Westol, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, Kalamazoo, MI.

The Finance Track kept treasurers, chapter financial advisers, and house corporation personnel busy.

The third subject of emphasis this year was membership selection, and the Rush Track seminars involved chapter rush personnel, rush advisers and "floating" chapter visitors on discussions that ranged all the way from "the system," conversation pointers, "selling Theta," and rush skits, to membership selection meetings, and recommendations . . . all with the expectation of building chapter strength by reaching a quota of top-notch pledges.

In an address to the conference Grand President Lissa Bradford revealed some of the signs that we are on the right track—keeping in mind Theta's reasons for being.

Chapters are right on when they

- ✓ view membership selection as a serious responsibility,
- ✓ stress pledge education as a period of instruction and enlightenment rather than learning how to be obedient pledges,
- ✓ require members to accept responsibility for their actions and behavior,

- ✓ elect officers for their leadership qualities, past service and dedication, not for popularity or personality,
- ✓ demonstrate concern for the less fortunate in worthwhile service projects.

This list while not all-inclusive reinforces our quest for excellence by recognizing members for their positive contributions, and holding them accountable for their shortcomings, Lissa Bradford explained.

On the other side of the coin things are happening within some chapters which are impeding the momentum of an organization on the move.

- ✓ A few chapters have not gotten the message that hazing is a counter-productive activity.
- ✓ The problem of alcohol abuse among college students has reached monumental proportions.
- ✓ Chapters are impeding forward progress by the over programming of members.

One certain gauge we have to determine the direction in which we are moving is the kind of experience we provide for our members. "A woman who spends four years in college as a Kappa Alpha Theta should gain something worthwhile in the process." With these words of advice and admonition fresh in their minds, the college delegates and visitors set to the task of refining the small points that will help them achieve the big goals.

T-shirts with slogans and identity symbols were very much in evidence at Stillwater. District pride is showing on the back of this collegian.

KAΘ Foundation Grant Helps Fund Leadership Conference

Those at the conference were reminded by Thetas from Tennessee including GP Lissa Bradford, center, that Grand Convention will be in their state next June.

Traveling consultants and resident counselors received the first phase of their training at Leadership Conference.

It's Nashville in '84!

GRAND CONVENTION, GRAND OLE OPRY AND SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY AT OPRYLAND

by Pat Frey, Convention Manager

June 17-22, 1984

The hospitality of the old South was never gone with the wind. It's very much alive at Nashville's grand and beautiful Opryland Hotel, and awaits all Thetas attending the 56th Grand Convention June 17-22, 1984. The warm, friendly people, colonial Williamsburg and southern plantation architectural styles, Grecian columns, elegant staircases and opulent chandeliers speak fluently of the South. But the Opryland Hotel goes beyond this. It is also the most outstanding meeting and convention facility in the Southeast!

Always a busy center of transportation, finance, and education, Nashville today pulses with new vigor, synchronized with the beat of America's music. Because of the key roll Nashville plays in the music industry, the city is often referred to as "Music City U.S.A."

Nashville is where it's happening—where the stars come to record and to appear in an increasing number of motion pictures and television spectacles, where thousands pack the Grand Ole Opry House every weekend for live performances of the world-famous and the nation's oldest continuous radio show, with such stars as Roy Acuff, Minnie Pearl, Porter Wagner, Bill Anderson, Barbara Mandrell, Loretta Lynn, Larry Gatlin and Dolly Parton.

Right next door to Opryland Hotel, but insulated from it by a verdant forest screen is Opryland U.S.A., a 100 acre musical entertainment park featuring white water rafting and bluegrass bands. Fourteen fully-staged musical productions, featuring more than 400 high-spirited young singers, dancers and musicians, Opryland is American music past and present. Pop, folk, Dixieland, bluegrass and country . . . rock and Broadway, plus almost a score of mild-to-wild rides . . . all in a spot of great natural beauty on the banks of the Cumberland River.

For the history-minded, Belle Meade Mansion and Andrew Jackson's "Heritage," offer glimpses of Nashville's past. The Cumberland Museum, the Cheekwood Fine Arts Museum and Botanical Gardens and the Tennessee State Museum can fill a quiet afternoon with beauty. Music Square and the Country Music Hall of Fame featuring historic films, a display of rare instruments, costumes, and recordings from past and present are always popular with visitors to the city.

From its opening in 1977, the Opryland Hotel, has been a model of the grace and hospitality that characterized the antebellum South. Now, construction has just been completed on a magnificent $40 million addition that offers additional meeting space and a European style conservatory. The two-acre garden under glass is accented by a one-acre skylight that connects the two new six story wings of guest rooms.

Nashville—a growth center, a music center, a population center, an historical, cultural and educational center is truly in the center of things.

And at the center of Theta's 56th Grand Convention is the Opryland Hotel where you will find "Gone With the Wind" grandeur in every aspect, and where we hope we will find you in June of 1984.

Jane Tarkington, left, chairman of the local convention committee with convention managers Susan Sladoje and Pat Frey.

Epsilon Mu president tells chapter's goals at banquet

by Mim Stokes, Epsilon Mu President

I'd like to begin by thanking each of you for coming tonight to celebrate with us this founding of our newest chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta. When we came to Princeton, we never dreamed that we would be involved in such an exciting challenge and undertaking, yet here we are . . . new initiates and charter members of Theta's 102nd chapter. It is with great pride that we, as of today, can call ourselves members of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Today we are starting something new at a very old institution, where attitudes are fixed and slow to accept change, where ivy-covered walls encompass us and impress upon us the value of tradition. And yet we're breaking tradition by adding a new one . . . a woman's fraternity, that of Kappa Alpha Theta, and we feel that this is an addition which will enrich our alma mater just as it will enrich each of us, her students. Both Princeton and Kappa Alpha Theta are old institutions with a lot to offer, and we are excited and proud to be students of both: to learn from them both, to take from them both, and, we hope, to give to them both.

Our goals as members of Kappa Alpha Theta are not different from those that we would seek as students of Princeton University or as members of this community. We will strive to be good students, to achieve high scholarship, and to serve others on campus and in the community. But the difference is that, as members of Kappa Alpha Theta, we will share the pursuit of these high ideals with each other. As friends and sisters we will work together and support each other, and enjoy our achievements not so much because they are for ourselves individually, but for ourselves collectively. I was sent a quotation by the Alpha Theta chapter at the University of Texas that expresses this much better than I can. It says:

*Life is made sweet because of friends we have made
And the things we share.
We want to live on, not because of ourselves, but because of the people who care.
It's in giving and doing for somebody else—
On that all life's splendor depends,
And the joys of this life, when you've summed it all up
are found in the making of friends.*

Each of us now has fifteen new friends here at school whom we can share things with, and in addition to that, a bond with Thetas all across the nation. I know that I speak for each member of this new chapter when I say that we are very happy and proud to be members of Kappa Alpha Theta and to be committed to her cause.

Mim Stokes delivered her banquet response with great enthusiasm.

Epsilon Mu . . . Theta's first chapter in New Jersey

Kappa Alpha Theta has not only added another chapter with the chartering of Epsilon Mu in Princeton, NJ, but it has added another state to the list of states where there are Theta chapters.

The new chapter was guided by Terri Tillotson, Gamma Rho, Santa Barbara since its colonization last December. Advisory board chairman is Linda Ewing Maiden.

The Installation Weekend events began Friday evening with the Loyalty Service held at the home of Epsilon Mu's alumnae initiate, Barbara Shafto. Beta Phi Thetas from Penn State assisted with the initiation ceremony. The Installation Banquet and Chartering Service took place in the Prospect Club on campus. Local alumnae serving on the Installation Committee included Linda Ewing Maiden, Beta Phi, Louise Smith Cluff, Rosanna Webster Jaffin, and Elizabeth Szilagyi Luckack.

The celebration continued on Sunday with the Installation Tea attended by Thetas, fellow students and friends of Epsilon Mu members, and the men from the three new fraternities on campus.

Headed by Grand President, Lissa Bradford, the installation team included Grand Vice-Presidents Carol Brehman and Lynn Davis; Council member-at-large Marian Paoletti; Nancy Weess, Executive Secretary-Treasurer; Sally Reinhold, College District President; Sally Hughes, Alumnae District President; Mary Grace Hughes, Colony Adviser; Eliot Jarvis, Traveling Consultant; Terri Tillotson, Resident Counselor and Deanne Worobetz, Resident Counselor at Dickinson College.

Headquarters Special Gifts Campaign Reaches Goal

A dream has been realized! Kappa Alpha Theta has moved into new headquarters in Indianapolis, fully a year ahead of schedule. This feat was made possible because of the generosity of Thetas around the world. a heartfelt thanks to all who have contributed to the Headquarters Special Gift Fund of the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation and to the 70 area workers who have called upon our donors. Listed below are contributors as of July 1, 1983 who have pledged $100 or more.

Over the DESKTOP

Ruth Adair, bookkeeper . . . her departure marks the end of an era.

We can't phase out CO in Evanston without paying tribute to the one who has worked there longer than anyone else on the outgoing staff. Bookkeeper Ruth Adair just missed her 20 year star by four months. It wasn't quite finis for Ruth when the truck pulled away from 801 Davis St. At my first call to the new CO Ruth was there breaking in her successor. One of Ruth's duties was to audit the officer expense accounts. At first we were a little bit intimidated by the fact that she was an ex-Marine of WWII, but that apprehension soon vanished when we learned she was a cat owner and admirer of the domesticated species of felines. Happy landing old friend with the sharp pencil and the sharp eyes.

advisory boards

Serving on one can be the best “job”
in Thetaland say
Washburn Advisers

“They’re waiting their turn in Topeka.” That’s the answer the award-winning advisers of the Alpha Upsilon chapter at Washburn give to the question of “How do you recruit and keep chapter advisers?”

On the thirteen member Alpha Upsilon Advisory Board one has served 8 years, 2 are in their seventh year, and all but two have served two or more years. Obviously there is satisfaction in what they are doing.

When Julie Jordan Friedstrom stepped forward to receive the award for the top advisory board in the fraternity at the last Grand Convention, in reality she was representing all advisers who are giving of talent, time and resources to work with and guide the 102 college chapters. Individual collegians whose knowledge of their office, and whose fraternity understanding and appreciation will be shaped by this type of alumnae contact are also the beneficiaries of the adviser-collegian relationship.

A demographic analysis of this particular advisory board reveals that half the members work outside their homes. One is a professor of law at Washburn’s law school. Another is facilities coordinator in Washburn’s Student Union. Their community involvements include membership in the Chamber of Commerce, Junior League, PEO and various professional organizations. They are active in youth organizations and hold positions on community boards. Of the 13 advisers, 12 have children. Their ages range from 27 to 37, and all 13 are Alpha Upsilon Thetas.

Ten members of this board have specific assignments with chapter officers. The others are members-at-large. They meet as a board once a month. Chairman Julie Friedstrom attends cabinet meetings each week and takes her turn with other advisers going to weekly chapter dinners and meetings. In between times she makes frequent visits to the chapter house. Contact with the chapter is not all in the supervisory area. A salad supper for members and new pledges at the conclusion of rush week, a special chapter dinner served by AB members, a buffet luncheon during officer transition workshop, an hors d’oeuvres spread before the chapter Christmas dinner and snacks for the collegians during finals week, speak of a togetherness and camaraderie beyond the role of chapter overseers.

Chairman Julie Friedstrom detailing the work of the board said, “Besides, we have a lot of fun, and a lot of laughter along the way. The friendships and the rewards of working with so many wonderful Thetas—both collegians and alumnae—make all the time and effort worthwhile.”

INTRODUCING . . . New Officers

Lil O'Rourke

A new CDP has been added in District V to accommodate the addition of a new chapter now being colonized at Brown University. Elizabeth Bruel O'Rourke, Chi, Syracuse has been appointed to the office. Lil O'Rourke, a 1977 graduate of Syracuse served her chapter as pledge class president, editor, standards chairman and president. She was also recipient of the Leadership Award at the 1978 Grand Convention. In the Greek community she was president of Panhellenic and co-president of the Greek Council. Lil's husband Fred, also a Syracuse graduate is a member of Delta Tau Delta, currently serving as chapter advisor. Lil is the Assistant Director of Alumni Programs to Syracuse University. Other activities include the Junior League and the District Attorney's Advisory Council. Her hobbies are gardening and needlepoint.

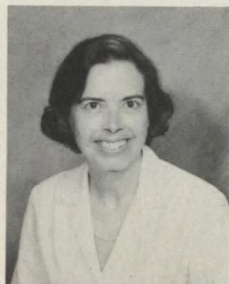

Sandra Ebling

Sandra Parrish Ebling has taken over responsibilities for the college chapters at Michigan, Michigan State, Albion and Western Ontario. She replaces Jennifer Rova who moved to California. Sandy Ebling is a member of Psi chapter at Wisconsin and was president of the alumnae chapter in Detroit. She has served in several offices in the Birmingham, MI Alumnae Chapter. The Eblings live in Bloomfield Hills, MI where Sandy, along with two other Thetas operates a Boutique Shop. She has been involved with the Women's Detroit Symphony Committee, The Children's Hospital, and the Village Club House. Walt and Sandy Ebling have two Theta daughters, members of Beta Pi; and a Lambda Chi son. Sandy's recreational interests include tennis, skiing, horseback riding, crafts, and gourmet cooking.

Judy Soto

Judy Soto of Greenwich, CT is the new Alumnae District President in District V. Judy grew up in Pittsburgh, went to Allegheny College and became a member of Mu chapter. She took her M.A. in elementary education at Penn State. She is a member of the Fairfield County Alumnae Chapter where she has served as editor, vice-president, president and co-chairman of the Flaming Festival. Judy is active in the Junior League of Greenwich, Greenwich County Day School parents' activities, and she is an elder and teacher in the First Presbyterian Church. Dale and Judy Soto have three children, Michael 8, Kristin 7, and Elizabeth one year old. Her recreational interests are skiing, swimming, sewing, gourmet cooking, tennis and golf.

Katie McMillin

Katherine Dittrich McMillin is the new Alumnae District President in District I, replacing Jo Ann Graham who has retired. Katie was initiated at Purdue where she served as Rush Chairman. While living in New York City in the 1960's she was President of the Alumnae Chapter there and has been President of the Lafayette, IN alumnae the past two years. Katie's mother, Mary Frances Dittrich McAttee, two sisters, Louise Dittrich Routt and Martha Dittrich Smith, and her daughter, Carole Wood are also Thetas. A past president of the Lafayette School Board, she is presently Vice-President of Friends of Downtown, as well as a volunteer for the local Art Museum and Historical Museum. Katie and her husband Dale, have six children and live in the country outside Lafayette. A travel agent for more than ten years, she still loves to travel, and enjoys handwork, cooking and entertaining.

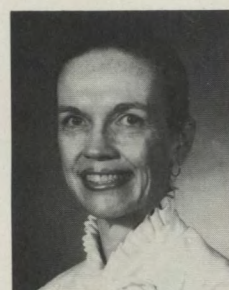

Jeannie Livesay

Jeannie Haines Livesay has been appointed College District President in District XI, where she will share responsibilities with Melanie McDowell. She was initiated at Gamma Iota, Kentucky. In Louisville she has been alumnae chapter president, treasurer and Panhellenic delegate. Her civic involvements include serving on her local park council, and the presidency of Holiday Manor Merchants' Assoc. She is a Deacon at Highland Presbyterian Church. The past 13 years she has owned the Charlane Bath Boutique. Jeannie was raised on a horse farm near Lexington. She is a golfer and bridge player. The Livesays have two children, Lance 17, and Lee 16. As college district president, she will supervise chapters at Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Tennessee, and Mississippi.

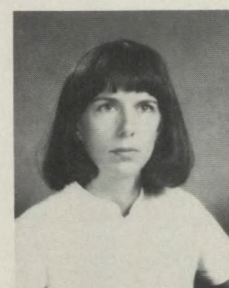

Martha Smith

A new ADP with her roots all over Texas is Martha Smith Smith, who replaces Marilyn Lynch in the Eastern part of District XII. An initiate of Alpha Theta at the University of Texas, Martha has served as president of the San Antonio Alumnae Chapter and the Northwest Harris County Alumnae Club. She has also represented Theta as a Panhellenic delegate and has been involved in rush recommendation work. Martha and Robert Smith have five daughters and they are in the process of modernizing a 100 year old farm house outside of Houston. Her community involvements include the Houston Ballet Guild, Altar Guild at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church, and the Junior League of Houston.

Betty Britton

Betty Timmerman Britton has been appointed Alumnae District President in District III, which includes Michigan and Ontario. She is a member of Beta Pi chapter at Michigan State and the Birmingham Alumnae Chapter which she has served as president. Betty is a former member of the Birmingham Historic District Commission, and has been active in the Village Women's Club and the Cranbrook Garden's Auxiliary. A wide range of interests include interior design, growing roses, golf, needlepoint and studying French for the past 1½ years. She is also a collector of teddy bears and she and her husband have two dogs.

Beth Fluharty

Elizabeth Lamb Fluharty, Delta XI, North Carolina is a new College District President in District XVII. She will be sharing the district with Gwynn Geiger Manners, taking responsibility for the chapters in North Carolina and South Carolina. Beth is a past employee of Central Office and is currently busy with her two small children, Eleanor and Tom. Beth is also involved with the Winston-Salem Junior League and Clemmons Presbyterian Church. In her spare time she likes to work in the yard, sew, read and hike in the mountains. Her husband Randy is manager of new products for L'eggs.

Honoree Ruth Wilber at the podium with Carolyn Savage, chairman of the chapter room dedication. Carolyn Savage is the first woman Regent of Oklahoma State University and immediate past president.

New Chapter Room At Oklahoma State Named For Ruth Wilber

Ruth Hill Wilber, former member of Grand Council and Supervisor of College Chapter Bylaws was honored during Officers' Conference in Stillwater at the dedication of the Ruth Hill Wilber Chapter Room.

The Stillwater Alumnae Club hosted the event in recognition of the many years "Ruthie" has served Beta Zeta chapter and the Fraternity. Ruth Hill was a charter member of Beta Zeta. When she married Phillip Wilber, an architect, he became an enthusiastic supporter of Theta interests. He designed the original Beta Zeta chapter house and kept a close watch over the Theta house at Oklahoma State until his retirement.

Indiana Theta Ann B. Ruebeck is president of the Association of Major Symphony Orchestras. In May Indianapolis hosted the convention of delegates from the 39 major symphony orchestras. Ann Ruebeck was chairman. She is past president of the Symphony Women's Committee, which with 5,000 members is the largest symphony support group in the United States.

Ann has also shared her talents with her community as coordinator of United Way volunteers, through Junior League activities and as a member of The Children's Museum Guild, and The Auxiliary to the Indianapolis Day Nursery. For her outstanding volunteer accomplishments she received a TSP (Those Special People) award given by Women in Communications.

Ann B. Ruebeck, Beta

Sherrye Wyatt, Alpha Sigma, is the 1982 winner of the Charlotte Friel Memorial Award presented by her chapter at Washington State University.

The award is named for the late CBS executive and alumna of Alpha Sigma. At the time of her death in 1971 Charlotte Friel was Manager of Research and Administration of Corporate Affairs for CBS.

The award recipient is a communications major. On campus she is Public Relations Director of the Associated Students and a member of Mortar Board.

Sherrye Wyatt, Alpha Sigma

Sherrye also received the highest honor given to a senior member of a sorority at Washington State University. She was named Greek Woman of the Year.

Her work in her major, public relations earned her an internship in the office of Mayor Royer in Seattle.

For Alpha Sigma, Sherrye was standards chairman, Panhellenic delegate and alumnae relations chairman.

Jackie Irons Swigart, Upsilon, Minnesota is the first woman cabinet member in the State of Kentucky. She is the Secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection in the cabinet of Governor John Y. Brown, Jr.

Her department is responsible for developing and enforcing Kentucky's laws in the areas of surface mining, air pollution, water, solid waste and the disposal of hazardous waste. It also administers the state's soil and water conservation program, forestry and the abandoned mined land program.

As an environmentalist and long-time citizen activist, she has become known for her wide knowledge of environmental issues. Included in her many honors are the Clean Air

Rosemary Murnighan Daniels, Tau, received the Northwestern University's Alumni Service Award at the University's Annual Alumni Awards Banquet last April.

The award is presented annually in recognition of service rendered voluntarily to the University, for the betterment of the entire Northwestern University community.

One of the University's most dedicated volunteers, Rosemary Daniels has devoted hundreds of hours of service to her alma mater through her work on the board of the Alumnae of Northwestern University. She is presently recording secretary for the board, and in the past has chaired publicity and hospitality, and NU-Day committees.

She is a former executive-secretary for Kappa Alpha Theta.

Michelle Nicastro, Tau

Broadway Musical Brings Joyful, Tearful Reunion

By Laura Basta, Tau '82

"Theta Love" is indeed very much alive. After being one year out of school I definitely still feel "its tug" as we Northwestern Thetas say! Last year this time it was so depressing as we all left school thinking we'd never see each other again.

Walking down Broadway in New York City last December thinking this same dejected thought, being a complete stranger to the "Big Apple," and noticing the darkness of night setting in, I started to despair. "Had Michelle forgotten I was coming to visit her for the week-end? Why wasn't she at her apartment, and where in Heaven's name would I find her?" I pulled my coat collar closer to my chin as if to hold back tears as I slipped all over the sidewalk in my pumps, and right into an icy cold puddle.

Finally I slid to a stop at the corner of 52nd and Broadway. I was on the verge of my first "Big Apple" size tear when there it was in big, bright, New York style lights,

"MERLIN." In all my excitement I ran across the street, over puddles and ice and dashed into the theatre. A matinee was in progress and as I focused my eyes on the stage, I saw a girl who looked just like Michelle. She started to sing and I immediately recognized the voice. And then the tears came rolling over my cheeks, but now out of sheer joy. There was my "Mich" singing on Broadway.

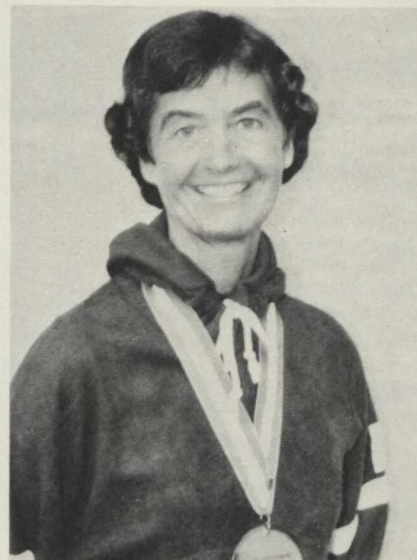

After the show and a million tears later, I tried to get back stage with little success. Then, one older and very distinguished looking man asked my name. Over the mess of people pushing to get in, he yelled "I'll get Michelle for you, don't worry."

Seconds later she bounced out the door. What a welcome! What a reunion! "Did you get my message at the apartment?" How could I have been so faithless? I am a lot more certain now that Theta is for a lifetime.

As for Michelle, she's a cat on stage—a panther that is, turned into a woman. Off stage she is our very own Theta sister from Northwestern's Tau chapter. And that's not Michelle's only claim to fame. Michelle Nicastro (Mich to her Northwestern sisters), has just made her debut in a Broadway musical entitled "Merlin."

Michelle plays the lead role of "Ariadne, a panther turned human by a wicked queen. As Chita Rivera (the wicked queen) turns Ariadne (the panther) into a beautiful young girl, the girl bursts into song, singing "Beyond My Wildest Dreams." Ariadne captivates the audience with her deeply warm voice as if to show she too has magical powers, while Doug Henning (her romantic counterpart and famed illusionist) listens and gets caught up in her magic too! She sings at first of being unhappily turned into a woman. After all, women are delicate and demure, all things a prior panther cares for very little. But within the length of the song Ariadne realizes the benefits of this transformed state and continues singing, but this time about wonderful, wild dreams coming to life!

Just four years ago "Mich" was Tau's songleader, clapping and en-

Sister Madonna Bruder

A 52-year old Catholic nun has attracted nationwide attention running in the Boston Marathon. Sister Madonna Bruder of Spokane, WA is a 1951 initiate of Alpha Iota Washington University, St. Louis.

The first nun to compete in and finish the prestigious race in 1982, this year she beat her previous time by six minutes. She also participated as an "Athlete vs. M.S." for the Multiple Sclerosis Society. A member of the Sisters of the Good Sheppard since 1953, Sister Madonna has given many audio-visual programs in the community, utilizing her outstanding nature photography.

couraging Thetas in song for rush. Michelle played many roles in school musicals before her 1982 graduation, and toured with the University's Waa-Mu musical touring troupe throughout the U.S. During college Michelle also worked at Chicago's Candlelight Dinner Theatre where she played one of three daughters in "Fiddler on the Roof." During those four years, Michelle dreamed about playing the theaters of New York. She used to say it was her favorite fantasy. Today when she bursts into song, "Beyond My Wildest Dreams" the words mean so much more to those of us who know Michelle's singing has real magic. She's just living out her wildest dreams.

Two early members of Beta Psi acclaimed in Canadian press

By Carla Rieger, Beta Psi

Beta Psi chapter was founded at McGill University in 1932 and two of its most prominent early day members have recently been the subjects of two Montreal newspapers for their contributions to Canadian culture.

Naomi Jackson's picture, along with ten other charter members, hangs on the Beta Psi apartment wall. Many Canadians recognize the Jackson name as belonging to one of the Group of Seven artists. A. Y. Jackson was one of Canada's most beloved artists as well as being Naomi's favorite uncle.

In an article appearing in the Montreal Gazette last December, Naomi Jackson talks about her past and her relationship with her uncle. Now 73 years old, Naomi is apparently very "ebullient, peppery, and charismatic" according to Lawrence Sabbath, the Gazette reporter who toured the A. Y. Jackson Centennial Art Exhibition at the National Art Gallery last year—with Naomi as his very enthusiastic and knowledgeable guide.

Naomi graduated from McGill with an M.A. in art history and then continued on to Harvard to complete her PhD. Montreal is her home town although she spent much of her life teaching art and German philology at Canadian and American universities. She is a world authority on the sculptor, Ernst Barlach, and recently has written two books entitled: A. Y. Jackson: The Article 1927; and Young A. Y. Jackson: Lindsay Evans' Memories 1902-1906.

Naomi herself has been a painter all her life and continues to sell almost all her works. She is in charge of all A. Y.'s papers and paintings and is presently writing his biography.

Margery W. Trenholme was also one of the first members of Beta Psi chapter, coming into the fraternity a year after Naomi Jackson. Recently in a local Montreal newspaper, Miss Trenholme was featured for having devoted 33 years of excellent service as chief librarian and secretary of the Fraser-Hickson Institute, one of Montreal's finest libraries.

In an article by Elaine Cohen, Miss Trenholme says she "emphathises with college youth of today because when she graduated in 1935 the economic climate was also bleak and jobs were scarce. However, thanks to the women's movement, today's female graduates are not barred from professional careers." She had very much wanted to be a lawyer but women were not allowed into the bar until 1941 in Canada.

Margery Trenholme has now retired from her position with the library but still remains active in community affairs. We were lucky enough to have her visit again this year at our 51st annual Founders' Day celebration. The fraternity bond, says Miss Trenholme, that marked the first years of her education and those of the other founding members helped them to realize the value of community spirit and education in their lives.

Mary Colvert Carroll, Beta Tau

Volunteer extraordinary

Mary Colvert Carroll, Beta Tau, past president of the Philadelphia Alumnae Chapter, is a volunteer with few equals. In June, Mary spoke to an international audience in Hamburg, Germany, a group of leading conservationists from Europe and the United States. Her subject is volunteerism, a subject on which she is well-qualified to speak.

She is presently serving on eleven boards of directors and boards of trustees. Some of the organizations are local, most are city-wide, one is regional and recently she has been involved in national conservation affairs.

In 1978 Mary was awarded the Conservation Service Award of the United States Department of the Interior. In 1980 she was appointed to the Board of Trustees of the National Park and Conservation Association in Washington, D.C., and she is currently vice-chairman of that group. She founded and is chairman of the Mid-Atlantic Regional Council which involves twenty-seven national parks in four states. She recently was appointed by the Secretary of the Interior as advisor to the National Park Service.

Mary's national appointments are the result of her interest in The Friends of Independence National His-

Keeping up with Theta alumnae is one area of chapter activity that the collegians of Beta Psi are really seeing as important, not only because of what it means to all the graduated sisters but also because of how much it enriches the lives of active members. Naomi Jackson and Margery Trenholme are just two of the best examples we have. We can still look to them today for guidance and inspiration. We at Beta Psi are very fortunate to have such a strong foundation.

UCLA Theta heads Southern Illinois U Graduate School

Barbara Callen Hansen, Beta Xi became the Dean of the Graduate School at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale last December, a job she is balancing with the duties of associate vice president for research, her own research in nutrition and obesity, and most recently, a son David, born in May.

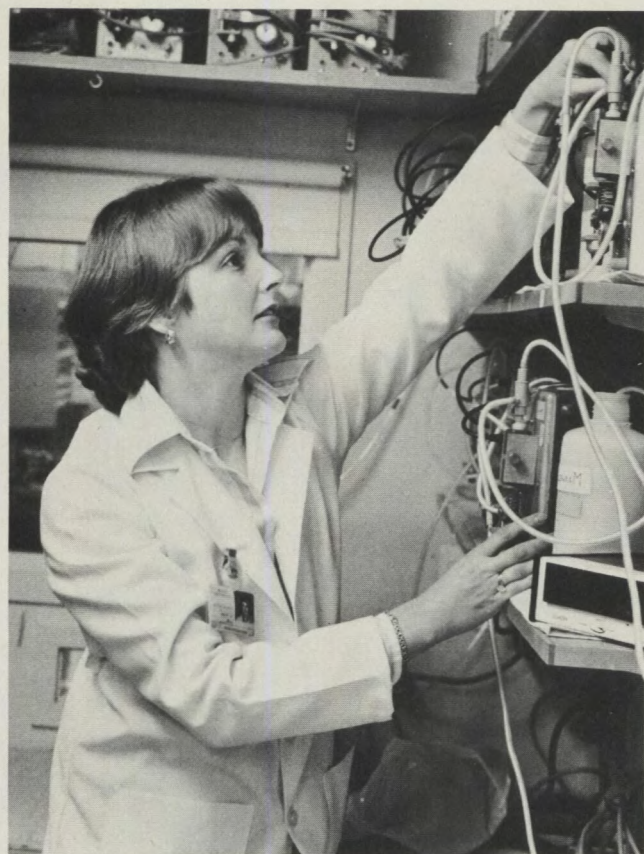

Part of this balancing act is being accomplished by the willingness of David to spend alternating days in the office of his mother, the nutritionist, and his father, Dr. Kenneth Hansen, the ophthalmologist and clinical professor in the School of Medicine at SIU.

Barbara Hansen graduated from UCLA summa cum laude and earned her Ph.D. in physiology and psychology at the University of Washington. She was associate professor in the schools of nursing and medicine for five years at Washington and most recently was the associate dean for graduate studies and research in the nursing school, and associate professor of physiology at the medical school at the University of Michigan.

During her tenure at the University of Michigan School of Nursing it became one of the top three nursing schools in the United States in attracting research funding.

Research planning and funding will be among Barbara Hansen's administrative responsibilities, but she does not intend to step back from her own research in nutrition and has brought with her from the University of Michigan a project underway involving research on appetite control mechanisms that underline obesity.

Noting that women are increasingly taking positions in university administration, Barbara emphasizes her belief that attainment of her position is not because she is a woman, but because women are now more prepared for higher positions.

torical Park. The Friends are volunteers who support Philadelphia's national park with activities and financial gifts. It is the largest such support group in the nation. Mary served as chairman of the Board and is now vice-chairman of the Advisory Board. As chairman, she co-authored a guidebook of the park and was one of the founders of Philadelphia Open House, a city-wide one week event which attracts visitors from throughout the mid-Atlantic region. She initiated free public walking tours daily in the summertime in the park, established a tea garden, promoted fund-raising commemorative events, lecture series, symposia, and opening exhibits.

Mary is married and the mother of a college age son and daughter. She has set the pace of volunteerism in Philadelphia.

Lee Hamilton, president of Gamma Psi chapter at Texas Christian University was selected from 23 applicants to be the first recipient of the $500 Panhellenic Scholarship. The award was based on scholarship, service to the University and involvement in the Greek system.

Lee is a junior accounting major who has maintained a 3.9 grade point average while participating in extra-curricular activities at TCU. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Mortar Board and Order of Omega.

Nancy Abernathy, Alpha Rho instructs Chapel Hill youngster on the recorder.

Costumes, acting and Nancy Abernathy bring Colonial history to life.

Nancy Abernathy, the Chapel Hill, NC Public Library's bookmobile librarian assistant, changes her street clothes to the royal brocade of an Elizabethan woman and brings to life the clothing and customs of people who lived 400 years ago.

The same fingers that take control of the gear shift in the seven-ton, bookmobile move skillfully across a harpsichord or psaltery.

Nancy sings, dances, plays instruments, and can break into a dialect believed to be that of 16th century English people. In cooperation with the National Park Service and the Chapel Hill Public Library, she is presenting the show, "The Elizabethan," for schools and organizations. The program is part of the quadricentennial celebration of the English colonization of North Carolina from 1584 through 1587.

The idea for the program belongs to Nancy Abernathy. A former park ranger at Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island, she worked as an historian and musician for the park. After moving to Chapel Hill and taking the job on the bookmobile, she saw an excellent way of arousing young people's interest in reading Colonial history and at the same time increasing recognition of the 400th celebration at Fort Raleigh.

"I wanted to offer something to the city," Nancy said, "But at the same time I was fulfilling a personal need. I'm enthralled with the history."

Nancy Abernathy is a South Dakota native, and a member of Alpha Rho chapter at USD. She moved to North Carolina in 1978 after getting a job at Fort Raleigh. The park service needed a ranger who could perform at the visitors center's Elizabethan room, which is bedecked in 16th century style with the furnishings including a harpsichord.

She moved to Chapel Hill two years ago but did not forget her meanderings through the woods at Fort Raleigh. Like most people who have wandered along the beaches and forests of Roanoke Island, she continues to wonder about the mystery that surrounds North Carolina's first colony. Former Chapel Hill resident and playwright Paul Green was so inspired by the mystery that he wrote the outdoor drama, "The Lost Colony."

Nancy Abernathy recreates an Elizabethan person. She tries to recapture the lives of the colonists in order to devise a realistic theory of what happened to the colonists who vanished. The only known records for the settlement end three days after they arrived at Roanoke.

"I feel like a missionary speaking for lost souls," she said, then laughed. "That sounds so dramatic." Nancy has designed a paper doll figure puzzle of herself and sends that to the schools along with a list of books that students can study before she makes her presentation.

During the presentation, she dances a jig and shows the students how to do ribbon dances, and teaches them songs.

"I cover the history of the colony, theories of what happened to the colonists and then ask the students to come up with their own theories," she said.

Nancy Abernathy has become a bit of a celebrity among youngsters. Even without her 16th-century attire, children still point her out. She now wears a button that reads, "This is no ordinary person you are dealing with." She said the most rewarding part of the program is hearing the students inquire after books about the period, costumes and music.

History major finds her niche

By Sharon Johnson

The life of a college student is hectic. It takes good organization to find time for studying, attending classes and meetings, and having a social life. It's almost like a juggling act. It would be nearly impossible to manage all of that plus the demanding responsibilities of a unique part-time job.

But it's not impossible for Olivia Taylor, a Delta Xi Theta at the University of North Carolina. Olivia is the assistant director of the Historic Preservation Society of North Carolina, in Raleigh.

The Historical Society informs interested persons about the preservation of homes in North Carolina. There are 1,400 members in this non-profit organization. Olivia became involved with the Historical Society through a summer internship in 1982. As an intern, she worked at the Lewis-Smith House in Raleigh where she met Anne Greer, the Executive Director of the Historical Society.

After completing the internship, Olivia was hired as assistant director of the Society. Since then she has compiled and distributed printed information about preservation to the public. Olivia says the Society is a public service which has taught her valuable skills in writing and dealing with people.

It is difficult to find Olivia relaxing in the chapter house because she travels so much. She presents slide-shows and gives speeches to civic groups around the state. And then her office is 28 miles from campus in Chapel Hill. "I have to manage my time well," Olivia said. "Tuesdays and Thursdays I don't have classes so I work from about 9:00 to 6:00 those days and every Friday afternoon and weekends.

Olivia also helps plan regional preservation workshops. These are held in several North Carolina towns and are directed to the specific needs of those towns.

A history major from Rockingham, NC, Olivia will graduate from UNC in December. "Now I feel more certain about my career. The Historical Society has given me a way to apply my knowledge and interest in history. People used to ask me, 'What can you do with a history major except teach?'" She added, "If I had a dollar for every time I heard that, then I wouldn't need a job. But now I can use my major in my career.

One period she is especially interested in is the Civil War. "I'm not concerned with the way itself," Olivia said, "but instead, its effect on people. A war begins, a war ends. But once the war is over, what happens to the people involved?"

It's easy to see Olivia enjoys her work. She explains, "It's exciting to try to piece together the past—to uncover the story the past reveals."

"K.T." Allen . . . a "significant person"

The first school facility ever to be named for anyone in Bay Village, Ohio was named for a Theta. Katherine Timmons ("K.T.") Allen, Gamma deutron, Ohio Wesleyan. "K.T." retired in 1981 after 32 years on the Bay Village School Board, including several terms as Board president. The K.T. Allen Educational Services Center opened its doors to the community the Sunday afternoon K.T. was honored at a reception. The current school board president said of her, "She was a significant person in the history of the schools in Bay."

She has also been involved with Ohio Wesleyan since her graduation serving on the Board of Alumni Directors and on the Board of Trustees of the University.

Among many other activities, she reserves time three times a week to swim at the Cleveland Athletic Club which she has done for 19 years and logged over 1700 miles. Each trip to the pool she swims 1-1 1/2 miles. Her daughter Nancy Allen Wenzlau, Gamma deutron says, "A neat Mom!"

But death may bring our friend exceeding near.

MY COUNTRY, AFRICA, by Andree Blouin, in collaboration with Jean MacKellar, Alpha Lambda, Washington, on the autobiography of The Black Pasionaria. Praeger Publishers, New York, NY 1983.

"It's a nearly incredible success story," says author Jean MacKellar, "of a woman who spent a dreadful childhood in an orphanage in the Congo, and emerged from that misery to become a major political figure in French speaking Africa. The Black Pasionaria, Andrée Blouin is not well known in the United States, although she was written up in TIME magazine several times. But in the European press she was often referred to as the Madame de Staël of the African independence movement. The title of the book refers to the way she takes the whole continent as her country.

She is particularly concerned with women's issues and in the early sixties organized a movement involving many thousands of women, seeking to abolish the dowry and polygamy and other forms of their oppression. Later she became Chief of Protocol for Patrice Lumumba.

However, the book is much more a human interest document than an account of political events. The turning point in Andrée Blouin's life was when she lost her little son, who had malaria, because quinine was reserved only for whites. The fact that the child's father and grandfather were white did not count. It was then the bereaved mother began to fight for the women of her continent.

The book contains 16 pages of photographs. The author and her subject became friends in Paris in the seventies. Jean MacKellar lived in France for 12 years and still keeps an apartment in Montparnasse. However, she spends most of her time in her home in the hills of Berkeley, CA.

For Educators

THESE SPECIAL CHILDREN, by Katherine F. Jeter, EdD, ET, Alpha Theta, University of Texas, Bull Publishing Company, Palo Alto, California.

This is a plain language book for parents of children with colostomies, ileostomies, and urostomies. It is a text for mothers and fathers who need the information, which turns out to be more parents than you would imagine. This is a resource book for parents of children who need ostomies—a book that would inform, counsel and comfort.

The information gathered has come from twenty years of clinical experience with child ostomates and their parents; youth "rap sessions"; parent support groups, formal research projects, review of the scientific literature; hundreds of interviews; and from families who have written from all over the United States and abroad, seeking or offering assistance.

The book was written because children are special people. Their emerging personalities are products of their genetic inheritance and their experiences.

Ostomies are special conditions. Parents of children with ostomies are required to learn more about bodily systems and functions than most people ever need or want to know, and they must learn to converse in a new language.

To help these special children, this is a special book for their parents . . . the ostomy book.

NURSING and the MANAGEMENT OF PEDIATRIC COMMUNICATION DISORDERS, edited by Susan J. Shanks, Ph.D., Beta Pi, Michigan State, College-Hill Press, San Diego, CA.

The editor of this textbook for professionals in the nursing field was a recipient of a Foundation graduate scholarship in 1958. Susan Shanks writes, "Because she was confined to a wheelchair after polio, the scholarship was very important in giving me the encouragement to continue my studies."

The textbook is the first nursing handbook providing thorough coverage of communication disorders in adults.

This textbook is described as a comprehensive professional handbook for nurses working with communicatively handicapped children, featuring six chapters written by acknowledged leaders from the fields of communication disorders and nursing. Susan Shanks has also edited a handbook on the handling of adult communication disorders.

Susan Shanks, with the assistance of her Theta Foundation scholarship went to Bowling Green State University in Ohio where she received her M.A. degree. Then she was on to Phoenix and three years of work in a speech clinic before she entered Louisiana State University to earn her Ph.D. in Speech Pathology. For 13 years Susan has been associated with Fresno State University, including five years as chairman of the Department of Communicative Disorders. She is now a fulltime teacher, enjoying leave to study Spanish and apply it to her profession, particularly in working with Spanish-speaking children with communications problems. Her specialties are phonetics, voice problems, aphasia, and language problems in children.

Baby's Best Chance and Perinatal Fitness, two well-illustrated, easily understood manuals for expectant parents are distributed free of charge by the British Columbia Ministry of Health to expectant mothers residing in British Columbia. The co-editor of both manuals is a Theta from the University of British Columbia, Margaret Wilson. Perinatal Fitness prepares the expectant mother from the early stages of pregnancy for optimal physical condition to the time of birth and the period of physical adjustment following. Baby's Best Chance deals with the effects of the mother's prenatal lifestyle and the understanding of the processes of pregnancy on the welfare of the child.

Constance Layman Hegstrom, Beta Gamma

THE GREAT PISTACHIO CASE by Constance Layman Hegstrom, Beta Gamma, Colorado State, Simon & Schuster, New York 1982.

A mystery with criminal overtones brings a couple of junior high students and their friends into the search for two bushels of "the finest pistachios ever grown in Raftery County." The nuts were stolen just eight days before they were to be entered into a contest at the County Fair.

The hilarious trio of detectives teamed up to solve The Great Pistachio Case includes a 60 year old grandmother with a rather new and unmarketable degree in chemistry, who has turned to the mail order detective business, her 12 year old granddaughter, Piper and Piper's shy new friend, Animal. When they aren't stalking the pistachio thieves Piper and Animal are pressed into service as players on the talent-shy Cedarville Mustangs football team. Innovative junior style football as played by Piper and Animal and their team mates, backed up by the whole community, enables the Mustangs to defeat their arch rival the Dunfield Coyotes and all this more or less on the way to the County Fair where creative detective work enables the grandmother-led detectives to apprehend the pistachio thieves and the case was closed.

K A Θ LETTERS

Dear Mrs. Gallup,

Delta Upsilon chapter at Eastern Kentucky University always makes sure I receive a copy of the Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine. In the Spring edition I noticed Theta's new concept, "The Theta Connection Program." It is extremely rewarding to see a program that will benefit collegiate members in career networking.

A day rarely passes that I, as a college administrator, don't hear of the difficulty Greek students are having in today's job market. I feel Kappa Alpha Theta is taking a progressive approach in aiding its collegiate members. It is refreshing to see Greek organizations reach out to the areas that are of great concern to today's Greek man and woman.

In closing, Delta Upsilon chapter is doing very well at Eastern and the Grand Council would be very proud of them.

Sincerely,

Nancy R. Holt

Greek Adviser, Eastern Kentucky University

Dear Mrs. Gallup,

I read with interest Eleni Vlandis' article on eating disorders. As a professional on a psychiatric unit in a college town, I see an alarming number of young women with these very serious illnesses. The more the public knows about eating disorders, the earlier they can be diagnosed and treated. Ms. Vlandis article will reach many people.

Dear Jane,

The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine is colorful, good format, easy and pleasurable to read. It always has something of interest. I was in school at Purdue when Adelaide Sinclair was Grand President.

Because of a poor word choice of Joan Davis in the last issue, I take up my pen to write. Having been married to a soil scientist for over 40 years, I learned very early that "dirt" is something found in a house. In "Headquarters Ground Breaking" the word "soil" would have been more accurate. Correctly, you used the word "soil" in "Over the Desktop."

Many thanks for your efforts with the magazine and may the errors be no greater!

Loyally in Theta

Betty Robertson, Alpha Chi

(Ed. note) The editor must take the responsibility for the misuse of the word, "dirt" in the headline, as I wrote that head, not Joan Davis who wrote the article. I admit to the confusion that the material in which our gardens grow, is soil when it is outside, becoming dirt when it is tracked inside. Webster says dirt is unclean or soiling matter and earth or garden soil are given as examples. We will never look at that stuff in the garden again without remembering the fine distinction.

Dear Mrs. Gallup,

Thanks to Grand Council and others involved in and encouraging an Alcohol Awareness program within college chapters. There is a tremendous need for this at all levels nationwide.

Our daughter, Janet Morrow Loeb, Gamma Tau, University of Tulsa School of Nursing, '78, was a critical care nurse at Central Methodist Hospital in Dallas, where she lived with her husband, Jim Loeb. She was spending a week with us in Naples, FL, getting a much needed rest from the stress involved in her work. During her visit, a drunken driver traveling 70-80 miles an hour in a pickup, rammed Janet's car from behind and killed her.

Janet was an asset to our society. Her skill in her profession was surpassed only by her compassion for others.

We have started a chapter of M.A.D.D. in Naples, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, which is a nationwide organization. There are other organizations working for the same cause, to make stricter laws and to alert the public to how lethal a weapon the automobile is when driven by an intoxicated person.

Keep up the good work and encourage those girls as they get out into the world to support these organizations.

Thanks for printing my story. Perhaps it will save a few lives. If so, Janet will not have died in vain.

Dear Mrs. Bradford,

I was extremely impressed reading about Theta's steps to promote alcohol awareness in collegiate chapters as outlined in your magazine. I think the best part of the checklist is its sensibility and realistic goals. Panhellenic at Illinois would do well to follow Theta's footsteps in this endeavor; I've mentioned it to our campus affairs chairperson, Cindy Frisina, a Delta chapter Theta.

Congratulations for your efforts to promote responsible alcohol use on our campuses.

Sincerely,

Adlon Jorgensen

Assistant Dean, University of Illinois

Dear Theta,

My husband and I recently returned from a vacation trip to Florida. While in Winter Park, we drove through the Rollins College campus. Seeing a KAΘ house, I stopped, rang the bell and introduced myself as a 50 year Theta.

Such a welcome I received! The girls there were so gracious and enthusiastic. They simply bubbled over with interest—where had I been a Theta, where had I lived, where had I been in Florida, on and on.

Later I told my husband and a friend with us that the brief visit was one of the high points of my vacation.

I guess this is what is meant by Theta love.

Loyally in Theta,

Ann Arnold Sullivan, Gamma 1930

Dear Mrs. Eakin, (CDP District XV)

I want to thank you very much for introducing me to the Wichita Alumnae Club and helping me find a place to live while I do my internship at the Institute of Logopedics.

The alumnae club is treating me like royalty! They met me at the airport, helped me get settled in, and bought my first week's groceries. They've invited me to dinner several times and to their outings.

The Institute of Logopedics is even better than I expected! It truly is an unique school. I'm learning a lot and having lots of fun too. I'm also gathering materials and suggestions to take back to my Edmonton chapter.

I'm also really excited because I'll be able to go to the Leadership Conference in Oklahoma with people from the Institute. I can't wait to meet Thetas from so many places.

A FOUR YEAR Toxicology program has been established within the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana University. It is one of only five such programs in the nation. Authorities estimate that 5,000 bachelor degree toxicologists will be needed in the 1980s but only about 100 are graduated annually.

GETTYSBURG COLLEGE moved 190,000 books from the old library to the new library in one morning via a "book bucket brigade." The 1200 volunteers—students, faculty, and staff—saved $20,000 in moving expense.

SECOND ONE FREE. An anonymous donor offered to pay for a second twin if the first paid her bills at Lake Erie College (Ohio). Three sets of twins have been admitted so far. (People)

CHAIN RESTAURANT managers will be trained at Michigan State's School of Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Management under a five-year grant of $375,000 from the PepsiCo Foundation. It is said to be the first undergraduate and graduate program in chain restaurant management. (Chronicle of Higher Education)

OHIO STATE'S College of Veterinary Medicine is encouraging vets to stimulate interest among high school students. Veterinary students have been on the decline for about 10 years.

PUBLIC RELATIONS. The infant son of the Prince and Princess of Wales received an honorary scholarship and a blue football jersey from Auburn University. The athletic director pointed out that the jersey was similar to ones that orbited the earth in the space shuttle Columbia as the crew, Mattingly and Hartsfield, are Auburn alumni. (Chronicle)

FOLKLORE about lost mines, gambling, and prospectors' legends is being collected at the University of Nevada/Las Vegas. Much of this Southwest folklore will become part of an encyclopedia of American folklore that has been in production at UCLA for nearly 25 years.

EMPLOYERS interested in hiring University of California/Irvine graduates with MBA degrees are able to view the graduates in videotaped interviews. If the pilot program is successful, tapes of candidates in other management fields will be added.

RUSH ADS. Delta Tau Delta at the University of Cincinnati invested $200 in 14 spot ads on WKRQ-FM radio telling freshmen men, "You gotta see Delts."

"HISTORIAE COELESTIS," by astronomer John Flamsteed and published in 1712, has been given to the University of Illinois Rare Book Room. The rarity of the "Historiae" is due to the fact that it is one of 60 volumes to escape destruction by the author. Edmund Halley (first observer of Halley's Comet) and Isaac Newton coerced Flamsteed into turning over his observations to them before he had finished his studies. They were later edited by Halley who added information which Flamsteed considered unacceptable. He obtained and burned 300 of the 400 volumes printed and his wife destroyed an additional 40 volumes after his death.

ARIZONA STATE has installed an automatic telephone answering device which provides callers with a one-minute message highlighting the day's activities on campus. The message can contain data about class schedules, road closures, and other emergency situations. On football days, it can suggest the best routes to the stadium and where to park.

Dear Foundation Trustees,

Attached is my check in the amount of twenty thousand dollars to establish the L. Pearle Green Scholarship. I am grateful to the trustees of the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation, through its Educational Trust Fund, for affording me the opportunity to honor a Theta who meant so very much to my fraternity and to me personally.

During my college years when she visited my chapter, I was privileged to learn first hand of her executive ability, her logical thinking, her fairness, and her wide knowledge of our fraternity and Panhellenic. Her wise and understanding heart made her always responsive to a chapter's call for help. Once she told us that to accept a responsibility in Theta was to assume a sacred obligation. This thought has remained with me always and I have often wished that all Thetas could have had her continuing devotion to Theta principles and ideals.

Personally, I am indebted to L. Pearle Green for something of greatest importance to me—my initiation into Kappa Alpha Theta. I pledged during World War I but was never able to meet the University's initiation requirements of three consecutive terms with a certain grade average. I was unable to complete three consecutive terms because my family joined my father, a doctor serving as an Inspector with the American Red Cross. Then too, the University closed during the 1918 influenza epidemic.

After I married, I served the chapter in every way possible as a friend and patroness. Miss Green, when visiting in 1930, was impressed by the fall rush and congratulated those in charge. When told several of us assisting had never been initiated, she learned the details of the "casualties of the three consecutive terms ruling." Upon her return to her office in Ithica, she wrote the alumna adviser that our initiation had been approved. That made possible what had been for me an impossible dream.

In addition to rewarding a worthy and deserving undergraduate, I do hope this annual scholarship and attendant publicity will mean that Thetas through the years will continue to learn of Miss Green's significant and devoted service to Theta. Such knowledge will be a potent challenge to all members of Kappa Alpha Theta.

I would like for this scholarship to be awarded to an outstanding and deserving Theta undergraduate who exemplifies some of the significant qualities of L. Pearle Green. She should be known as the L. Pearle Green Scholar. The suggestion that she be selected from among district nominees not chosen as the Founders' Memorial Scholars seems to be an excellent idea.

I appreciate greatly your cooperation in the creation of this new scholarship which means so very much to me and which I fervently hope will mean much to other Thetas in the years to come.

Loyally in Theta,
Amanda Howze Amsler
Alpha Theta Chapter, 1931

L. Pearle Green is a legendary Theta, who was known personally to many college and alumnae members during the forty-nine years she served the fraternity in an official capacity. She was Grand Secretary from 1901 to 1930. She also became national editor in 1909. With the restructuring of Grand Council in 1930 her responsibilities were combined in an office of Secretary and Editor, a position she held until 1950.

FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES FOUNDERS' AWARDS

At the closing of the 1983 Leadership Conference in Stillwater, Oklahoma, there was much anticipation and excitement as the four Founders' Memorial Scholars and recipients of Education Trust Fund Scholarships were announced. Chosen from eighteen district nominees, each of whom received a certificate and $100, the four Founders' Memorial Scholars were further honored with a $2000 check to be used for education; and a gold charm carrying the black and gold Foundation logo, inscribed with the name of the founder the committee felt she most personifies.

Tiffany Cunningham, Hannah Fitch Shaw Scholar—Delta Theta, University of Florida completed her junior year in Building Construction with a 3.78 GPA. Vice president, efficiency and recommendation chairman, she also was co-chairman of the 1983 District XVIII Convention. Tiffany's activities include Mortar Board, Phi Eta Sigma, Florida Blue Key committees and Greek Week Runathon Staff. She has established an ethical code of conduct followed closely regardless of peer pressure. Tiffany has demonstrated leadership, pride and love of Theta within the chapter and on campus. Career oriented, two of Tiffany's future ambitions are to be a respected member of her community and successful in the land development industry.

Karen Francis, Bettie Locke Hamilton Scholar—Epsilon Kappa—Dartmouth completed her junior year in economics with a 3.10 GPA. As a charter member and first president of her chapter, this Theta like our founders also is a pioneer. Karen had the grace, intelligence and wit to guide a group of young women along a very trying, yet rewarding path. Among her college activities are Class of 1984 Council, Society of Business and Finance, yearbook and Figure Skating Club. Karen has been described as a natural leader with good humor, quiet efficiency, creative spirit and boundless energy. Karen looks forward after graduation to a career in business.

Hilary Gerdes, Alice Allen Brant Scholar—Alpha Xi—University of Oregon has a 3.46 GPA and plans to graduate in 1984 with a B.S. degree in Psychology and a certificate in Gerontology. Hilary has served her chapter as scholarship and service chairman. Selected as her university's outstanding junior woman, Hilary also is a member of Mortar Board and Fryer's Club, a student representative on the Faculty Advisory Committee and a violinist with the University Symphony and Chamber Orchestra. Her greatest ambition is to gain the skills and competence necessary to assist those who are desperately reaching out for love, care and understanding in the last days of life. Hilary will pursue a Ph.D. in Medical Psychology.

Angela Stewart, Bettie Tipton Lindsey Scholar—Alpha Mu—University of Missouri starts her senior year with a 3.83 GPA in Biochemistry. Vice president, efficiency and service chairman of her chapter, "Angel" also actively participates in many campus, church and community activities and always is willing to do unwanted tasks. She belongs to Angel Flight, Kappa Epsilon Alpha, and Alpha Zeta agricultural honorary, and is a student member of the College of Agriculture Honors Council. An excellent citizen, top student with moral character beyond reproach. Her two major ambitions are to become a physician and to have a family on which to instill her love and values.

KAΘ FOUNDATION PROUDLY PRESENTS

1983-84 GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

Ten Thetas receive $1200 grants

Julie Frier
Alpha, DePauw
Dentistry

Julie Frier is from Anderson, Indiana and received her B.A. in Zoology in May '83 from DePauw and at the same time completed a year of graduate study at Commonwealth University in Richmond, VA. She is a member of Alpha chapter, as is her sister. Her mother is a member of Kappa chapter. In 1980 she was one of eight DePauw pre-med and nursing students who assisted Missionaries of Charity in Port au Prince, Haiti and in 1981 she was deputy medical director and dental assistant for a missionary team to Jamaica. In the fall she will be entering the Medical College of Virginia School of Dentistry in Richmond where she will pursue a degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

Audrey Stanton
Beta Gamma, Colorado State
Veterinary Medicine

Audrey Stanton is a 1982 graduate of Colorado State University in Ft. Collins, where she received her B.S. in Veterinary Science. Following her interest in thoroughbred horses and English riding horses, Audrey desires to concentrate in equine orthopedics and lameness. In college she was a member of Mortar Board and president of Panhellenic, as well as being Homecoming Queen at CSU in 1980 and Western Athletic Conference Holiday Bowl Queen the same year. This scholarship will be awarded for her junior year in the College of Veterinary Medicine at CSU. Audrey has demonstrated her dedication to veterinary medicine by involving herself in a series of activities related to animals, including a summer as a ranch hand, experience at a race track and in managing the sheep division, Reserve Champion Swine Showman of 1982. She expects to get her Doctorate in 1985.

Kerri Williams
Beta Zeta, Oklahoma State
Medicine

Kerri Dianne Williams from Oklahoma City, is a 1975 graduate of Oklahoma State University in biology and has been very active in both the junior and senior alumnae groups in Oklahoma City. She has been employed as a blood bank technologist and will be entering her second year at the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine. She intends to specialize and become a physician in private practice.

Elizabeth Schaughency
Alpha Omega, Pittsburgh
Child Psychology

Elizabeth Ann Schaughency did her undergraduate work at the University of Pittsburgh, where she maintained an excellent grade point average; then as a first year graduate student at the University of Georgia, she had an even higher GPA. She was sought after at the University of Georgia for her first year in child, clinical psychology. She was president of Alpha Omega chapter, Panhellenic president and activities chairman. The Athens Alumnae group chose her as "Outstanding Senior Graduate." One of her graduate school professors said she is a very promising scholar and has become involved in their research projects.

Janet Meyers
Beta Pi, Michigan State
Speech Pathology

Janet Meyers graduated from Michigan State University in May, 1983, with a B.A. in audiology and speech pathology. She will pursue an M.S. Degree in Speech Pathology and hopes to pursue a career as a speech pathologist in a hospital setting specializing in neurogenics and working with stroke patients. While in Beta Pi chapter, Jan has served on the standards board, as assistant house manager and president. She was a delegate to Grand Convention and served Theta on an extension team. Janet has worked all the time during her college career but has found time to give extensively to college and community volunteer activities.

Kathy Nelson
Alpha Nu, Montana
Law

Cathie Nelson is in her second year of law school at Wilamette University in Salem, Oregon. She is in a joint degree program of law and business management and will be one of the first women to complete this program. Cathie received her B.A. from the University of Montana. She served Alpha Nu chapter as scholarship chairman, fraternity education chairman, and song leader. She was one of twelve members of Silent Sentinel, a senior honorary service program, and was University of Montana Homecoming Queen. Cathie has worked to support herself in college as a legislative intern, computer operator, sales office employee, music teacher, graduate assistant, waitress, secretary, and maintenance repairman for a railroad. Cathie's versatility, scholarship, and caring for others has made her outstanding in her college life.

Lorie Bettison
Gamma Rho,
U. Cal.-Santa Barbara
Geology

Lorie Ann Bettison graduated in June 1983 from the University of California Santa Barbara with a B.A. in geology. She plans to attend graduate school in order to pursue a degree in igneous petrology. One professor states, "Lori is among our top students (We have over 350 geology majors). Her file contains four letters of commendation from our department for the last four quarters. Lori will do something very few students have done: start and finish the B.A. Program in geology in three years. It is a demanding program." For Gamma Rho she was deputy vice-president efficiency and president. She has been a Chancellor's Scholar and member of Order of Omega. She has been active in campus affairs and has worked as a bank teller during the summer months.

Alison Snow
Alpha Xi, Oregon
Physical Therapy

A member of the University of Oregon track and field team as well as the University's cross country team, Allison Snow has lettered for three years in track and two years in cross country. She became interested in a career in Sports Medicine when, as an injured runner, she looked in vain for a doctor educated in the cause and cure of sports-related injuries. She sees an athlete as one with special problems and needs. Allison has served Alpha Xi as scholarship chairman, service chairman and chapter president. Her campus activities include Alpha Lambda Delta, Druids, and Mortar Board. Her GPA is an impressive 3.9+ on a 4.0 scale making her a University Dean's Scholar and a Scholar Athlete. She is entering a two year course for her masters in Physical Therapy.

Leslie Benser
Pi, Albion
Law

Leslie Benser graduated in May, 1983 with a B.A. from Albion College. She has maintained a GPA of 3.78 and has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She plans to attend law school in 1983. Leslie has served her chapter, Pi, as vice-president-efficiency, and as a member of the standards committee. She attended Grand Convention in 1982. Leslie has been a member of the Gerald R. Ford Institute for Public Service, an annual symposium. This year she has been general chairman of the event. According to one professor, "Ms. Benser has a zest for living which has made her very active in student affairs where she has demonstrated genuine leadership qualities."

Judith Habicht
Beta Lambda, William & Mary
Anthropology

Judith Habicht from West Sececa, N.Y. is a graduate of William and Mary in Anthropology. She was a member of Beta Lambda chapter and elected to Alpha Lambda Delta, Mortar Board and Phi Beta Kappa. She will be entering her third year in the Ph.D. program in Anthropology at Harvard University. Her research interests have been concentrated in the area of Prehistoric and Historic North American Archaeology with emphasis on the American Indian. Her Ph.D. degree will enable her to be a college professor or to do professional research for a museum.

IT'S NICE TO FEEL GOOD ABOUT SOMETHING YOU'VE DONE

Designing "Holiday Harmony" was a real accomplishment for John, a teenager from Lake Forest, Illinois. Before he came to the Institute six years ago, he had no interest in art. His mother says she used to buy him coloring books and crayons, but he refused to use them. Now his artwork adorns the front of the Institute's Holiday Greeting Card. John has multiple handicaps, including a profound hearing loss in both ears.

Even though many of the Institute's students live in a world of silence, they still communicate the joy of the holiday season to others through the Holiday Greeting Card. Our students create the card as a symbol of the hope, love and support they receive from the many people who have helped the Institute.

When you send Institute of Logopedics greeting cards, your friends will know you've captured the spirit of "Holiday Harmony." So, give a little of the Institute for the holidays and join our students in saying,

"Let the harmony of the holiday season fill your heart."

To recognize the relationship between the Institute and Kappa Alpha Theta, your greeting cards will have the following message printed on the back:

Since 1934, the Institute of Logopedics has provided comprehensive programs for children and adults with handicaps impairing their ability to communicate. In 1946, the Kappa Alpha Theta Grand Convention adopted the Institute of Logopedics as the fraternity's national philanthropy. Through the years Kappa Alpha Theta has played an important role in funding many of the Institute's projects, notably, a special residential complex, Theta Court, named in honor of the fraternity. Additionally, Kappa Alpha Theta was a Founding Sponsor of the Institute's Research Program, and, more recently, was responsible for the establishment of a scholarship fund which has made it possible for many children and adults without sufficient financial means to receive therapies they so desperately need.

Sounds of the Season

May the sounds of the season bring you joy throughout the year

Dan, 19, from Minnesota, has never heard the voices of singing carolers because of a severe hearing loss, but captured the sounds of the season with felt tipped markers.

Friends

Wishing you warm winter moments to share

Lance, 18, from Louisiana, enjoys music and athletics. A severe infection at age 14 resulted in memory loss and aphasia, yet Lance's work conveys the warmth of a cheery fire shared by friends.

Holiday Light

May the special light of the holiday season brighten your life throughout the year

A shy teenager from Virginia, Kim has reached out from her silent world to give us the warmth and humor of a holiday light. Kim suffers from multiple handicaps which include severe hearing impairment.
